

SHSU's College of Osteopathic Medicine to Conroe

CONROE (Connect Media) – Sam Houston State University's proposed College of Osteopathic Medicine now has an official location.

The five-story, 216,000-sf facility will be on 7.3 acres in Johnson Development Corp.'s Grand Central Park.

SHSU has been working on the proposed college to serve the needs of the medically underserved rural East Texas population.

The 2,000-acre Grand Central Park is on Loop 366 S. and includes residences and commercial real estate. Construction is expected to be completed by the end of 2018.

Go Bearkats! Sam Houston State University's proposed College of Osteopathic Medicine now has a home in Conroe. Keep reading today's RECON for this and more. (Rendering from Grand Central Park.)